Greenwich – Thalia – Lynnhaven 230 kV Rebuild Project

At Dominion Energy, we are committed to providing the reliable, affordable, and increasingly clean energy that powers your every day. To replace aging equipment and maintain reliable service for our customers, we are preparing to rebuild an existing 230 kilovolt (kV) electric transmission line in the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia between our Lynnhaven and Thalia substations. This project will also partially rebuild the line between our Thalia and Greenwich substations.

Preconstruction activities between our Greenwich and Thalia substations are planned for July 2024, and construction is scheduled to begin in August 2024. Preconstruction activities between Thalia and Lynnhaven substations are expected to begin in November, and construction is scheduled for January 2025.

Before we begin preconstruction activities, we invite you to join us at one of our community meetings. We are offering both a virtual and an in-person opportunity to learn more about this project, our construction plans, and meet our team.

We are dedicated to working safely and courteously in your community. Thank you for your patience while we complete this important reliability project.
