Opal Substation

AT DOMINION ENERGY, we are committed to staying connected with our customers and providing the latest information on work being done in the communities we serve.

You are receiving this postcard because we are preparing to build a new substation near your property in Fauquier County, Virginia. Increased demand for energy services requires new infrastructure to maintain reliable service in your community. The new Opal Substation will provide relief to the near-capacity Warrenton Substation and strengthen our ability to avoid a prolonged power outage — or an outage altogether — should an unexpected event occur. New electric transmission lines will not be needed for this project.

As part of Fauquier County's public review process, we will submit plans and seek approval in the coming weeks. We will also hold a community meeting where you can ask questions and interact with our project team. You will receive an invitation once the details are finalized.

We are committed to safety and are mindful of our activities and maintaining proper social distancing. The work we do is integral to maintaining grid reliability and our crews will continue to perform work as needed to provide reliable energy.
